Plot

"Superman Returns" is a science fiction film. Superman was born on a planet which died long ago. His adoptive parents, the Kents, live on a farm in Kansas. They give the young boy Kal-El a new name: Clark Kent. Clark lives among humans, but he is not one of them. Under Earth's yellow sun, he can do things humans can only dream of.

Clark lives a dual life: he is Clark Kent, the reporter and he secretly transforms into the Man of Steel when the world needs him.

In this new film, Superman has disappeared for five long years. Without him, there is a lot of crime in the city of Metropolis. Lex Luthor is out prison and he wants to use Superman's technological secrets for his own personal glory.

Lois Lane, star reporter for the Daily Planet and the love of Superman's life, is very famous. She even won a prize for her essay, "Why the World Doesn't Need Superman." She is now engaged to the editor's nephew and has a young son.
